

---

Kingsley and the Hangers

---

Distance: 16 km=10½ miles

easy walking

Region: Hampshire

Date written: 29-may-2009

Author: Botafuego

Date revised: 5-apr-2013

Refreshments: Kingsley, East Worldham

Last update: 8-apr-2024

Map: Explorer 133 (Haslemere & Petersfield) hopefully not needed

Problems, changes? We depend on your feedback: feedback@fancyfreewalks.org

Public rights are restricted to printing, copying or distributing this document exactly as seen here, complete and without any cutting or editing. See Principles on main webpage.

Woodland, heath, hills, views, villages, pubs

---

In Brief

---

This is a walk in the hilly parts of Hampshire taking in several of the interestingly-shaped hills called “hangers” with lovely woodland and memorable countryside.

The route is fairly dry underfoot but boots are recommended. Long trousers are required as this walk is not nettle free and the undergrowth may be thick in summer along the early sections. There are some fields and stiles that may be difficult for a large dog.

The walk begins at Kingsley Pond, Hampshire, postcode GU35 9ND, near the Cricketers inn and the village shop. For more details, see at the end of this text (→ Getting There).

The Walk

---

1

See map overleaf. From the car park near the Cricketers, cross over the B3004 road onto a track opposite the inn, beside a farm, marked as a footpath. Follow the track past a sign PANTERA and a large metal gate (or over the adjacent stile if the gate is closed). As the track bends left keep straight ahead on a grassy path between a wire fence and a rope fence. Just after a 3-plank bridge and steps either side of the disused railway, take the right fork, between wire fences, diagonally across the centre of the meadow. You reach a fence on the left, soon passing through a new wooden swing gate leading to an enclosed path between wire fences, all the time heading for a huge red-brick house and reaching a minor road.

2 Go straight over the minor road, through a gate and along a wide grassy path. At the end, go through another wooden gate and turn right. Immediately turn left onto a gravel drive between a house and its garage and then cross over a stile into a grassy meadow with hens. Turn left and pass through a metal gate or over a rather old but usable stile. Go over a new bridge and turn right along the field edge. Turn left at the field corner but in 10m turn right over a wooden bridge into a strip of woodland. The path crosses an unneeded stile and goes across the centre of the next field. Turn left along the field edge for 25m and then right at a yellow arrow into woods via steps. Go up the steep slope, aided by a few more rudimentary steps. After the first section, follow a left-pointing arrow, shortly going through a gap cut in a fallen tree trunk. After another flight of steps you reach the top and another field. Head diagonally right across the field to a marker post with yellow arrows. Turn right here. After 150m or so in this large field you approach a fingerpost, set well back from the junction. Turn left (don't miss!) here onto a nice clear path across the centre of the field.

3 There are great views from here, especially back to the Surrey hills. The path runs across a large field, through a metal kissing gate, across a meadow, through a second kissing gate, along the edge of a small field and down a track to a lane by the exquisite South Hay House. Cross the lane and continue up the bendy lane marked Stubbs Farm – No through road.

After about 100m you pass South Hay Farm on your left. After another 300m you reach Stubbs Farm. Binsted church is visible over on the right.

- 4 At Stubbs Farm pass between the barns to where the footpath takes you left after the barns into a field, then immediately right down the right-hand side. Follow the edge down the slope as it curves to the right. Where the edge turns away, your path keeps straight ahead across the centre of the field heading for the long wooded ridge ahead. It then leads over a concrete footbridge in trees, through scrub, into more trees, wheeling left and going steeply up steps. At the top, at a T-junction with another footpath, turn left beside a large field. In 200m, you enter a second, smaller field. 50m further, go diagonally right across the field on a very faint path, as indicated by a fingerpost which is partially hidden by undergrowth. Do not miss this turning! The golfball-shaped domes in the valley, which you will pass, belong to the radar station at RAF Oakhanger. The path leads right by a yellow arrow under a large yew. At an unneeded stile by a gate it joins a lane running through the hamlet of Wyck, past a converted oast and the fine Bumbles Farmhouse.

- 5 100m after Bumbles and opposite the gate of Wyck Farm House, turn left onto a footpath and keep straight ahead beside trees, avoiding a path that forks right across the grass. The beginning of the footpath is a real delight, fringed as it is with birch trees and an ancient wall. The early Victorian graystone Wyck Place and its pointy tower are visible 100m to your left. The path crosses the house's linden and chestnut driveway. Note the two little coy outhouses on your left with their fox and hound windvanes. The path now takes you through a metal kissing gate and along the length of a field with fine views to the left. If your path forks in 20m, keep to the right-hand fork, the more central path. You soon cross a concrete track. The footpath goes under wires and crosses a stony sunken track in a narrow line of trees. After leading you straight over another field, your path goes through two swing-gates, along another footpath and through another swing-gate to reach the churchyard at East Worldham.

Worldham (there is also a West village – see the Alton walk) has ancestry going back to the old stone age but its entry in the Domesday Book is not too clear. It may be "Werildeham" after a change of spelling. King Johns Hill, which you will shortly pass, has an Iron Age hill fort encircling its summit. The village was in the possession of a certain Geoffrey de Venuz from Norman times and it was held by the de Venuz family for 250 years. East Worldham lay partly in Woolmer Forest, where hunting took place and a medieval hunting lodge has been excavated on King Johns Hill. East Worldham has a number of listed buildings, the oldest being Old House Farm which could date from earlier the 1300s or 1400s. Like so many, the church dates from the 1200s. The effigy in the south wall was rumoured to be that of Philippa, wife of the poet Geoffrey Chaucer. (See also the "Ewelme" walk in the Chilterns in this series.) This was based on the "wheel" badge on her chest, "Roet" (or "rouet" in modern French) being her family name. It is now believed to date from about a hundred years later (budding historical scholars please write in with suggestions).

The "Three Horseshoes" pub (Fullers) is nearly 250m to the right as you reach the main road but it is well worth the diversion. Walkers have found it a lovely pub with excellent bar food.

- 6 (An alternative route to the following is to retrace your steps to the first of the swing gates and turn right on the Hangers Way, taking you directly opposite the turning at (*) below.) Go past the church, exiting by the entry porch, and turn left by two noticeboards, through a small parking area, on a tarmac track to the main road, the B3004 once again. Turn left on the road and, about half way down the hill (*), cross the road carefully and turn right on a track marked as a footpath, also part of the Hangers Way (HW) a 21-mile long-distance route from Alton, along a series of steep-sided wooded hills known as "The Hangers", through Petersfield to Queen Elizabeth Country Park. Keep to the right-hand, upper path. In 125m, this path goes left through a kissing gate (or through an open metal gate), with crops on your right, where you have a wonderful scene of the perfectly-shaped King John's Hill (see brief history above) by lakes and sheep meadows. Aim to the right of the lakes and, at a fingerpost, veer left through a swing gate, going past the lake on your left. Go over a wire fence* aided by tree stumps and veer right on a level path following a line of trees: an ash and oaks. *2018: [or through a gate, if open, and straight ahead to the line of trees.] Your path goes through a swing gate and curves left into woods.

- 7 In 50m, the path bends right (2022: now unmarked!) and goes down to another swing gate. Keep to the left-hand side of the first sheep meadow, going over a gate-bridge-gate combination, then straight ahead across another pasture, under power lines and through a swing gate and over a bridge into woodland. Take the narrow right-hand HW path, avoiding the broad grass footpath straight ahead. You now traverse some of the most enchanting woodland you are ever likely to see. After 350m of sparse woodland with a wire fence on your right, yellow arrows direct you to the right through a swing gate and onto a darker muddier track. Apr 2024: [walker reports swing gate blocked by barbed wire: there must be another way in, or a short detour: feedback please! ]
- 8 In about 100m, turn left at a yellow arrow over a little wooden bridge onto a narrower path, still following the HW. Do not miss this turning! The path winds through larches and soon meets a wide gravel track. Turn left here. After about 100m on this wide gravel track you come to the entrance of a field with brick rubble underfoot. Turn diagonally right across a small meadow and through another swing-gate into woodland dominated by tall pines. After about 100m, turn sharp left at a HW sign, onto a narrow path into the woods. The path goes around the left hand side of a pond with private fishing rights, and comes out on the other side on a solid stony track. Turn left on the track for 40m and turn right at the "finger", still following the HW. The route crosses Hartley Wood. Keep straight on, ignoring all tracks off to the left, until you reach a minor road by Candovers House with its small lake.
- 9 Turn right on the road for 80m, still following the HW, and turn left past a cottage, High Candovers, veering right past the aptly named Long Candovers. Just past the superbly thatched Candovers Barn, turn left through a gate on a footpath, thus leaving the HW. Keep by a wire fence on your left, soon entering a wood. You quickly reach a crossing track with a farmyard on the right. Go straight over the track, past a large metal gate, ignoring a footpath sign to the left. When you reach the bottom in about 200m, go directly over a track into a field ahead. Continue along the right-hand edge of the field with the white domes visible ahead to your left. In 350m, at the far corner (skirting if possible some deep mud), the path goes over a one-plank bridge Nov 2018: [take care! slippery] and a stile in the hedgerow and curves left into another field.
- 10 Cross the field in a straight line diagonally with the domes on your left, crossing a ditch by a bridge, aiming for a large stile visible in the hedgerow about 5m to the right of the opposite corner. Go over the stile and a bridge and turn left around the field, then right at the corner. Follow the path past the thatched Tunford Cottage, over a stile, to a main road and turn left onto it. Further on through the village, you pass the Hanger restaurant and free house (previously the Red Lion). Follow the road a little further through the houses of Oakhanger until, just past a phone box, you come to the village green with a large chapel ahead on the left.

- 11 Take a wide gravel drive, marked as a footpath half right across the green. Shortly, by a sign for the Local Nature Reserve, leave the drive which curves away right and continue straight on into Shortheath Common. Stay on the main broad path across the common, avoiding all lesser branches and crossing paths. The path is mainly sandy but marshy at one point. After about 600m, you pass under power lines. 50m later, the path is joined by a track from the right and passes Heathfield House. 40m after the house, take the right fork and continue along the track until, in 80m, you meet a track coming in from the left. Turn right with the track for just 10m and then turn left over the grass to continue in your original direction. This route is less obvious than the previous wide tracks so you need to concentrate on maintaining direction. The route goes through a gap between birches, then straight ahead on a narrow path between oaks and birches. It then crosses two drives, and runs diagonally right on an indistinct grass path, shortly meeting a driveway which leads towards the left-hand corner of a house called Chestnut Farm. Leave the drive passing the corner of a long brown wooden outhouse as your path curves left away from the outhouse over the grass.
- 12 In only 20m veer right again to head straight for a long bank ahead, through a dark gap in the bushes. Turn right on the path running alongside the bank which turns out to be a reservoir hidden from view, with fields on your right. Soon you have the disused railway and a line of poplars on the right. Where the path eventually ends, turn right over a stile, go left for just 10m on the disused railway path, then right over a stile into a meadow. Cross the meadow diagonally left and cross a table stile near the far corner on the opposite side. Go through a small wooden gate and half right in the direction of the arrow to cross an orchard with geese and other waterfowl. Go through a gate, straight over the driveway and over a stone bridge. Turn immediately right on a marked path beside a ditch, avoiding the path straight ahead.
- 13 Continue on this new tall fenced path until you come to a gap on your left. Turn left here as directed by a yellow arrow. Continue on this path, again with new tall wire fencing to each side, heading for the houses in the distance. Follow the overhead wires straight past an MoD sign with Meadowgate Farm on the right. You are now back on Kingsley Common. At a T-junction, turn right. The track curves left and comes to another T-junction. Turn right again. When, in 50m, the track reaches a large metal barrier with another MoD sign, turn sharp left uphill on an unsignposted very sandy track.
- 14 The track joins another sandy track coming from the right by a bench seat. Stay on this very wide sandy track, ignoring in 100m paths off to the left and generally avoiding all lesser branches and crossing paths until the track descends, in another 100m, to cross a very wide sandy space. Your track continues directly on the other side, although less sandy now. You will now be following this track for about 500m across the Common. You pass a diagonal crossing path, then no less than four sets of wires. Soon after the last of them, you are pass a certain Riverside Cottage over on your right. Ignore two lesser paths straight ahead and stay on the main track which bends left. Within about 50m, you reach an open space which used to be a car park (and where this walk previously used to start).

- 15 With your back to a fine white house called Coldharbour House, go over a one-bar barrier marked NO PARKING EMERGENCY ACCESS. After 80m ignore a minor right fork. In less than 100m, at a junction of paths, take the right fork, practically straight ahead, avoiding two paths on the left. In another 100m on the main path, you pass under power lines. 50m further, keep straight on at a junction under more wires. In 150m, the track ends abruptly at a low bar with a grassy space ahead. Go forward 20m and turn right on a narrow grassy path. In 10m, fork left and follow the path downhill avoiding all turnings off till you reach the lovely Kingsley Pond. Go either way round the pond to the car park where the walk began.

The Cricketers Inn offers food, drinks and accommodation.

fancy more free walks? www.fancyfreewalks.org

Getting there

By car: the walk begins at a small local car park on Kingsley Common, Hampshire. To get there, by a “scenic route” from the London area: take the A3 past Guildford and turn off for Thursley. After Thursley and a double bend, at a T-junction, turn left. From here you follow signs for Churt. When you meet a major road coming from the right, turn left to join it, ignoring a road straight ahead. A little further, take the right fork, signposted Churt. At Churt cross straight over the A287 and continue through Barford for about 1½ miles. You need to look out for an unsignposted lane on the right called Spats Lane. This is about ½ mile (700m) after a farm shop on the right advertising milk and cream. There is a small grass triangle by a cottage aptly called Old Cottage. Follow this narrow lane for about a mile (1½ km) to a road junction and cross straight over, signposted to Kingsley. In another mile, you reach the A325 at Sleaford. Turn left and immediately right at the traffic lights. Follow this B3004 road for 1 mile. Just after a church, opposite the village shop and before the Cricketers pub, turn left into the dusty car park.

A simpler route is to take the A3 through the Hindhead tunnel as far as the junction with the A325, turning right and following the A325 all the way through Bordon to the traffic lights mentioned above.

By train/bus: bus 13 from Liphook station to East Worldham.