Heath, quiet woodland, hidden paths, hills, views

In Brief

This is a sparkling and inspirational circular walk along some of the hidden paths of Surrey leading up to the famous high viewpoint of Leith Hill Tower but using an unusual route. Even in peak season you may be quite alone until shortly before the Tower. The return also goes by an unusual route and offers terrific views. There is almost no road walking. Indeed, you may hardly see a car except at two busy crossings of the A24. As usual in this series, this walk uses some unregistered paths.

The walk can be divided into two different shorter walks. The Holmwood Loop (10½ km=6½ miles) takes in Holmwood Common, Coldharbour and Anstiebury. The Leith Hill Loop (10 km=6¼ miles) goes over Leith Hill. Both shorter walks go through some of the lesser-known dense woodland north of Coldharbour. All these walks visit the Plough Inn (newly renovated in 2016) in the village for refreshments (for enquiries, ring 01306-735149).

This walk is perfect at all times of the year because of the large stretches of forest with all the seasonal changes of colour. There are some nettles in the main walk, a discomfort for bare legs. In dry weather any strong footwear is fine but in the rainy winter of 2018 there were inevitably numerous muddy stretches in the woods and fields, making boots essential. Your dog can come too.

The full walk and the Holmwood Loop begin in the National Trust Inholms Lane car park in North Holmwood, postcode RH5 4JH. The Leith Hill Loop begins in one of four small car parks off Coldharbour Lane between Dorking and Coldharbour. For more details see at the end of this text (→ Getting There).

The Walk

Decision point. If you are doing the shorter Leith Hill Loop, omitting Holmwood Common, skip to the end of this text “Coldharbour Lane car parks” and follow the directions under the car park you have chosen.

Leg 1: The Long Green Ascent 5½ km=4 miles

- 1 From the Inholms Lane car park, take the wide stony tarmac path straight ahead past a noticeboard, ignoring minor paths on the right and left. In 100m, go straight across a grassy clearing to a large 3-way fingerpost on the other side. Veer left here on a wide track in the direction of the Circular Trail. Within 200m you reach a second large fingerpost. Leave the Circular Trail here by forking right onto a narrower green path. The path gradually curves right and eventually joins a surfaced drive passing some garages and reaching the main road. Shift left a bit to cross the dual carriageway carefully to a stony lane on the other side, Swallow Lane.

- 2 Fork left before a fence and continue on a track across the centre of the green. About 20m before houses, fork left on a curving path and go straight over a track at a fingerpost, beside houses. On reaching the start of woodland, keep right in the direction of a 2-way fingerpost, past gardens on the right. 50m later, go through a swing gate to enter a meadow. Follow the path uphill across this large grassy space, passing under wires. On the other side, go over a stile into a dark wood. Keep to the main path through the wood. The path is joined by a wider path coming from the left and crosses a stream.

- 3 After crossing the stream turn immediately left, on a path that runs at first parallel to the stream [partly rutted by forestry trucks]. After about 300m, a bridgeway joins from the right at a junction. Go straight on, ignoring the wide track that curves away left. After a steep rise, followed by a yellow height restrictor under cables, you come to a T-junction opposite a stand of pines with a metal fence and a reservoir beyond. Turn left here on a wide forestry track and in 40m cross straight over another wide crossing track which goes uphill on your left, passing under more height restrictors. Keep ahead, heading for a one-bar barrier, a small parking area and a road, Coldharbour Lane.

Decision point. If you are doing the shorter Holmwood Loop, omitting Leith Hill, skip to near the end of this text and do the Coldharbour Woods South short cut.

The Coldharbour Woods North short cut joins the main walk here.

- 3A Cross over Coldharbour Lane, a fraction right. Take a track opposite past a one-bar gate and immediately turn left on a footpath downhill. In 150m, at a crossing track, your route veers right and immediately left, thus maintaining your direction. Near the end, the track turns left down to a concrete drive. Turn left on the drive.

- 4 In 40m, turn diagonally right at a signpost by an avoidable stile along the left side of a meadow. On reaching a gap in the fence, go left over a stile and follow the yellow arrow along the left-hand side of the next pasture, sometimes churned to mud by horses. At the end, go over a stile by a duckpond and turn right on the track leading away from the farm.

- 5 Go straight on past some metal gates. Where the farm track curves left across the grass, keep straight on keeping close to the fence on the right, heading for trees ahead. You pass a post with arrows, go up natural steps through hazels and are suddenly in a wonderful beechwood. On meeting a wide forestry track, shift left a bit and cross straight over. On reaching a wooden fence by a meadow, at a signpost, turn right on another footpath. Continue straight on meeting, at a junction, a broad sandy byway known as Wolvens Lane by the isolated Wolven Cottage Stables.

- 6 Turn right on the track for 50m and at the next junction turn left at a low bar onto a sandy path. The path crosses first a wide sandy path and then a narrow path and enters woodland going through a wooden barrier. Here take the left fork, the more level path through holly, quickly dipping down through laurels to an area known as Tilling Springs. On your left is a garden and a pond with swans. Go over a rushing stream and, at a wide T-junction, turn right. Shortly, on reaching another T-junction with an even broader track, turn sharp left. This track is an ancient byway known as Whiteberry Road. It is also part of the Greensand Way, a long-distance footpath which runs from Haslemere in Surrey to near Ashford in Kent.

- 7 In about 150m, immediately opposite the fine old cottage of Warren Farm, 20m before a junction of tracks, turn right onto a narrow footpath at a new signpost. The path leads up through a clearing in another fine beechwood. It follows the left-hand edge of the hill until it finally levels out. At a signpost at the end of a wire fence, turn right as indicated, still following the wire fence. A sunken footpath joins from the left at a signpost. Continue for about another 100m staying near the fence until you reach a post with a yellow arrow. Do not follow the yellow arrow but instead take a green path forking left, thus leaving the official footpath. In about 200m the path goes over a small crossing path. Continue until you reach a single-bar gate and, 10m further, a junction of major tracks with a signpost.

- 8 Turn left at the junction (disregarding any minor forester's tracks) onto a straight very wide track that leads gradually uphill. You may now see other walkers for the first time today. After roughly 300m you reach a major fork in the track. Take the left, slightly narrower and rougher track. This track will take you, in 1.3 km through varied terrain, to the top of Leith Hill. Near the end, it is joined by two tracks coming from the right and ascends more steeply. In each case, keep to your general uphill direction. Finally you reach Leith Hill Tower with its fine views south over the Sussex Weald. The servery has refreshments and nice homemade cakes, now open daily, closing at 5, or 3 weekdays. You can ascend the tower where there is a view all round with miles of seeming wilderness. The tower was built in 1766 to raise the height of Leith Hill to the symbolic 1000 feet. It later fell into disuse until 1864 when the side-tower staircase was built and was fully restored by the National Trust in 1984. The Weald is the area between the North and South Downs, its name coming from the Saxon word for forest.

Leith Hill Tower (NT)

Leg 2: Around Coldharbour 4 km=2 miles

- 1 Facing the view south, turn left on the main wide sandy path, passing a mountain bikers' noticeboard, soon steeply downhill. At the bottom is a junction with a deep hollow on your right. Take the path straight ahead through a wooden gate at a National Trust sign for Duke's Warren. There is also a sign identifying it as the Heathland Trail. From this point, this walk is marked by green-topped posts ("GTPs"). In about 150m, at a junction, turn left as indicated and follow a semi-circular path with fine views north. The path comes round to another junction. Turn left here, as indicated by the GTP, back on your original path.

- 2 At the next junction fork left, staying with the GTPs. The track curves left, still with fine views. 450m from the fork, just before a gap in the pines, there is a GTP with a clear right-pointing arrow. Don't miss! Turn right here on a narrow path steeply uphill. The path takes you over a pine-fringed heath and through a metal kissing gate. At a GTP, cross straight over a sandy path, thus leaving the Heathland Trail. The path goes through woodland, across a clearing and back into woods (watch out for bikes as the notice says!). At a multiple junction, keep straight ahead on a downward path that comes to an unmade road. Turn left, shortly reaching the village of Coldharbour. Your route is right along the road, but first you may like a pause for refreshments.

Coldharbour must be one of the most romantic isolated villages of the Surrey hills. For many years it was looked on with fear by inhabitants of the lowland towns as a refuge for smugglers who would keep their caches of contraband in safe underground sites and would deal ruthlessly with any outsider who interfered. The Plough Inn serves several real ales, including three brewed next door in its own brew-house, and has a garden in the back. It also offers accommodation. 2016: The Plough has opened a little shop selling teas, proper coffee, warm sausage rolls (very yummy) and other bites.

- 3 Facing the Plough Inn turn right and go only 25m as far as a signposted footpath through a wooden gate on the left. Follow this hedged path between gardens, over a stile and along the left hand side of a lovely sloping sheep meadow partitioned by a wire fence. Exit through a wood-and-wire gate

(close it!) and, at the far side, go over a stile onto a level path through dense woods. In about 100m, just after a series of fallen trees and just before the path veers a fraction right, take a distinct path on the left leading up through bracken. This path is easy to miss as it is not signposted. It leads through a wonderful larch wood on the side of Anstiebury Hill, one of the best secrets of this area. *This path is not an official right of way but it is well used by local people and is even described in the classic 1915 book The Surrey Hills by F.E.Green. Nevertheless, it is probably private woodland, so please use it with care and discretion.*

Anstiebury Hill is the site of Anstiebury Camp a hillfort constructed during the 2nd or 1st century BC. It is described as "triple-vallate" which means it had three ramparts (walls and ditches) around it, clearly a formidable defensive position. It may have been abandoned after Caesar's landings in 55 and 54 BC and later reoccupied in the Roman period. It is not accessible however.

Your path veers left under tall pines. After ½ km on this interesting semi-circular path, it ends at a T-junction with a track. [2018: there are many fallen trees, requiring some scrambling.] Turn right and in 30m step out to a road using a narrow gap to the right of a metal gate.

Decision point. If you are doing the shorter Leith Hill Loop, omitting Homwood Common, skip to near the end of this text and do the Coldharbour Woods North short cut.

Leg 3: Descent with Views 4½ km=3 miles

- 1 Cross directly over the road and take a concrete drive heading for Anstiebury Farm. Historic Anstiebury Farm is a group of buildings perched on the hill. The main farmhouse is from the 1600s but has been much modified. After you pass straight through the farmyard, there are fine views ahead to the south and east with Gatwick Airport clearly visible. Avoid a stile and a marked right turn and keep ahead between meadows soon following an oaktree bank on your left. Your route goes over a stile (or through the gate), over another stile to skirt left round some properties at Anstie Grange and continues onwards through charming woodland. After some distance it goes over a footbridge and a stile (or through a gate) and along the right-hand side of a pasture. It finally meets a lane via a stile (or the metal gate). Turn left on the lane.

2 The lane passes several junctions of paths and tracks until it approaches the houses of South Holmwood. Note the fine timbered Betchets Green cottage on the left. After passing a pond on your right, turn right on a signposted path leading to South Holmwood Church. Go through a small wooden gate into the churchyard (or round it if you have a dog). The church of St Mary Magdalene was built at the start of Queen Victoria's reign, replacing the original small rustic building. Exit via the lichgate to the A24 road. You need to cross a fast stretch of the dual carriageway. In view of the number of accidents that occur here, it is safer to use the underpass, just 200m to your left. You should definitely use it if there are children or slower walkers in your party. On the other side is the start of a lane. Here and just ahead you have a bewildering collection of signposts to choose from.

This last stretch through Holmwood Common is the most complex and you need to concentrate more than usual. This beautiful route takes you back to the car, showing off on the way some of the Common's best features.

3 Do not enter the lane but take the first signposted path at the corner immediately left downhill. At a T-junction with a drive near houses, turn right. In 30m, at a signpost, turn left across the grass as indicated to pass to the left of White Cottage. Just behind the cottage there are two quite distinct paths forking off. Yours is the narrower right fork, immediately after a tiny yard and a bench seat, curving away right into the woods behind the houses. Don't miss this turn! This straight woodland path passes the garden of a red tile-hung house on your right. Soon the large gates of the Mill House come into view and the path nears a road on the left. Cross the road to another signposted footpath on the other side. The narrow grassy path passes the large garden of the house on the left (a platform in the beech tree visible in winter). After some fine woods, your path ends at a T-junction with a very wide roughly-surfaced track near a junction of drives on your right. Avoiding the junction, turn sharp left on this wide track, soon passing Holly House.

4 Continue for about 100m to a line of red-stone cottages. Turn right here on a wide grassy path in front of the cottages. At a curve, your path is joined by a narrow path from the right. About 100m from the cottages, the path forks at a marker post. Take the left fork, going down to a footbridge with a handrail and then rising to an open area. Keep at all times to a broad path on the left side of the open area. The path winds left by a bench seat and then right. Where the path ends, you come to two wide crossing paths running parallel to each other. Cross over the first wide crossing path and 10m later, at the edge of the woods, turn left at a T-junction with the second wide path. (This is because the parallel paths later diverge.) After 200m, this very wide fine woodland path crosses a bridleway marked with a post. After another 200m, you come to a hillside viewpoint with several benches, many paths on all sides and a magnificent view ahead. The North Downs can be clearly seen on a normal day with the spire of St Barnabas Church at Ranmore visible on the skyline.

5 After admiring the view, continue down the steepest part of the slope ahead on a very broad grassy path. At the bottom of the slope, the path becomes a well-made cinder path, a welcome final treat for the feet. It curves right and left and comes to a fork, indicated by a large fingerpost. Take the right fork, in the direction of North Holmwood. This comfortable level path winds through wonderful extensive woodland that exhibits a remarkable selection of different trees, including several species of oak, hawthorn, birch, hazel, ash and holly. The path goes over a signposted crossing path with a house just visible on the right. Keep at all times to the main winding path, ignoring all lesser branches and crossing paths. Later the path comes to another fork with a driveway just visible ahead. Take the right fork, the wider option. The path crosses two gravel driveways to a single fingerpost, a fraction to your left. Keep straight ahead in the direction of North Holmwood and Inholms Car Park. Stay on the main path till you pass another fingerpost familiar from your outward journey, and enter a clearing. Keep right at a fingerpost to arrive back at the car park where the walk began.

Coldharbour Woods South 2½ km=1½ miles

Use this short cut if you are doing the shorter Holmwood Loop.

- A Only 15m before the barrier and the road, fork left on a narrow path running between tall pines. This path runs nice and straight through woodland, gradually widening. It now goes gently uphill and winds bit. Finally, 650m from the start of the path, you come to a T-junction with another path. Turn sharp left to meet a T-junction in 80m with a wide shingle track. Turn right on the track. In 150m, at the top of a rise, leave the shingle track as it curves right by keeping ahead on a narrower path, as indicated by a blue arrow. The path goes up through pines and soon widens, bringing you to a 3-way fingerpost. Keep straight ahead on grass, followed by pine needles uphill. A field becomes visible on your left. Your path soon leads down to join the road just before Coldharbour. Keep ahead and, at a junction by the 1640-vintage White Cottage, keep straight on. Soon you reach the Plough Inn and the centre of the village.

After refreshments, resume the main walk at Leg 2 section 3.

Coldharbour Woods North 2½ km=1½ miles

Use this short cut if you are doing the shorter Leith Hill Loop.

There's a huge hoo-ha centred here on the site of a threatened oil and gas exploration. You may see huts and a fence and a protest camp. Latest news (2017) seem to be 'at risk of not happening' as the drilling company is seen by Surrey C.C. to be 'difficult and awkward'.

- 1 Ignore a concrete drive ahead and turn left on the lane, Anstie Lane. In 100m, at a road junction, turn right on Coldharbour Lane. In 120m, at a fingerpost, fork right on a bridleway. Your path gradually rises through pines, losing sight of the field on your right. The surface then becomes grassy and you reach a crossing path with a fingerpost [2017: with a finger broken]. If you are returning to car park 3 or 4, turn left at the fingerpost (ignoring all the "fingers" on the post) and go steeply down to end your walk. Otherwise... Continue straight on. After a short muddy section a wide shingle track joins you from the left. Keep ahead on the shingle track.
- 2 After 150m, you meet a junction with a path on your left. Go sharp left here. In 80m you meet a junction on your right. If you are returning to car park 2, ignore the junction and follow the path as it veers left past a barrier on your right to reach a gap in the bank on your right through which you reach the road and the car park. Otherwise ... Turn sharp right at the junction onto a narrow woodland path.
- 3 Your path winds a bit downhill and then runs quite straight on a pleasant woodland course. Finally, after 650m, you reach a T-junction with a wide track by a barrier and the road on your left. If you are returning to car park 1, your walk is ended. Otherwise, turn left through the barrier to the road and resume the main walk at Leg 1 section 3A.

Getting there

By car: The National Trust Inholms Lane car park in Holmwood Common can be reached via the A24 through Dorking. Just over a 1½ miles=2½ km after Dorking you reach the North Holmwood roundabout. Turn left here and, soon after, turn left on a road signposted Leigh, Newdigate. Continue past North Holmwood church to the next sharp bend (careful !) where the car park is on the right.

Coldharbour Lane car parks

These are starting points for the shorter Leith Hill Loop.

Space in the village is very limited but there are at least four parking spaces on Coldharbour Lane, coming from the Dorking direction. This section pinpoints them and explains how to join the walk from each of them.

Car park 1 is the first coming from Dorking. It is not an official car park but the wide entrance to a forestry area with a barrier. It is used by local ramblers. This “car park” is on your left, about 2½ miles from Dorking and 400m=450 yds after a junction on your right, after you enter deep forest. Park without blocking the barrier, just in case the woodsman needs to open it (rarely, we’re told).

If starting in car park 1, join the main walk at Leg 1 section 3A.

Car park 2 is a designated parking space off the road, on your right, 0.7 km=780 yds after “car park 1”.

Car park 3 is an entrance to a forestry area on the left-hand side of Coldharbour Lane, 300m=355 yds after “car park 2”. (Car park 4 is even larger on the other side.)

If starting in car park 3, follow the wide shingle track into the woods for 400m and join the Coldharbour Woods North section at point 2.
