Woodland, heath, views, green meadows, historic house

In Brief

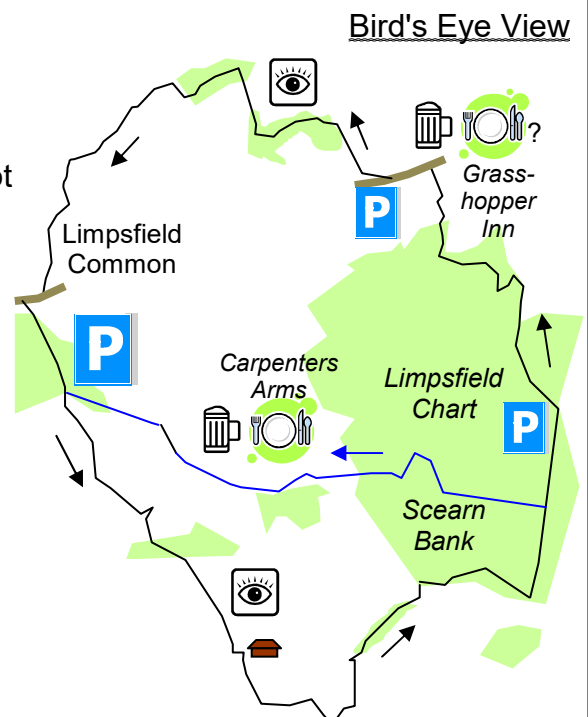

On a huge high sandy bank on the border with Kent, looking south over the Weald and north to the North Downs, lies a fascinating area of Surrey woodland known as Limpsfield Common. This circular walk traverses the Common, taking you on a brief excursion down into the first pastures of the Weald and (optionally) up again, almost to the foot of the North Downs.

There is a characterful country pub on the shorter route, which you can visit later if you take the longer option. (To enquire at the Carpenter's Arms, ring 01883-722209. The Grasshopper Inn was firmly closed in 2020.)

All the paths on this route are wide and clear of undergrowth. The paths are generally sandy or grassy, with only one or two confined muddy areas, but enough to make boots necessary outside a dry period. Your dog can also come but only if he is not too large, because of one awkward stile.

The walk begins at the Brick Kiln Lane car park, Limpsfield Chart. The approximate postcode is RH8 0QZ which points to the houses just beyond. Brick Kiln Lane is a turning off the Kent Hatch Road, 350m from the start on the right. The car park is 150m along on the right. A good alternative start is the lay-by on the main A25 Westerham Road, just west of the Grasshopper Inn (postcode TN16 2EU) (beware new parking restrictions?). The Moorhouse Road car park (nearest postcode TN16 2ES) is also possible. For more details, see at the end of this text (→ Getting There).

The Walk

Leg 1: Southern Wander 4½ km=3 miles

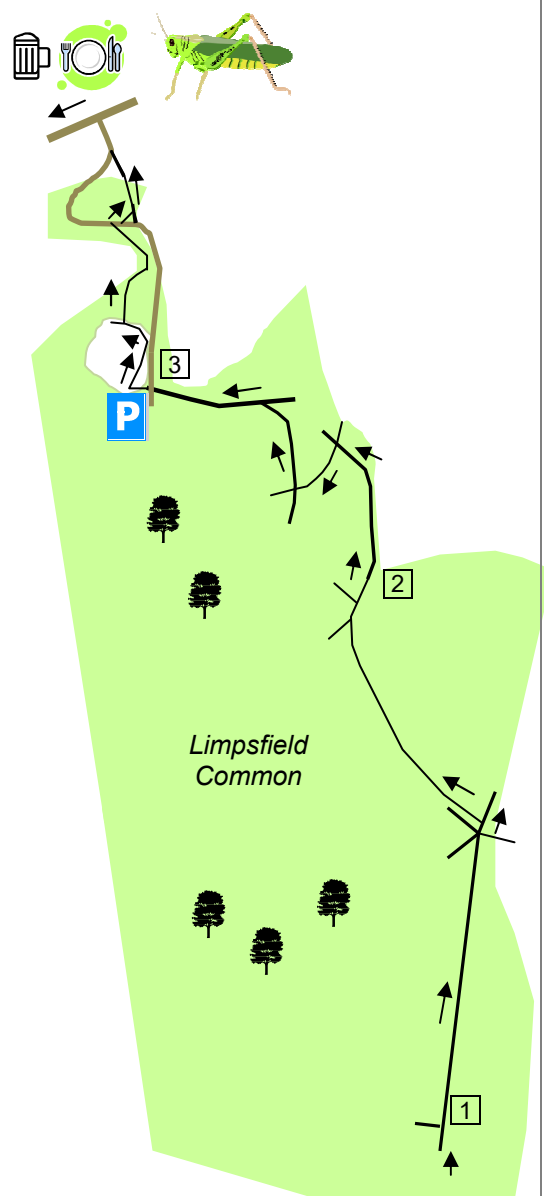

- 1 Starting in the Brick Kiln Lane car park, go out at the back of the car park, away from the road, and turn left on a woodland path. This path shortly takes you to a road junction near the start of Stoneswood Road. Go straight over to join the major road, Brick Kiln Lane, avoiding a bridleway on your left. In 80m, ignore a private drive on your left but, in another 10m, at a fingerpost, fork left on a footpath, part of the Greensand Way (GW) long distance trail. Cross a golf fairway diagonally, keeping the same direction, to come out to a road opposite Pains Hill Chapel.
- 2 Take a footpath on the other side, just to the left of the chapel, still on the GW. Your path runs between fences and beside a horse pasture, through an unneeded swing-gate to a wide tarmac, very quiet, residential road. Turn left on the road, passing several exclusive properties, with good views south over the Weald. At the end of the road, at a 4-way fingerpost, turn left on a tarmac drive uphill. Immediately you pass on your right Pastens Cottage with a plaque on the wall recording a short sojourn. Stepniak (1851-1895) was a Russian revolutionary, author of "The Russian Peasant". As if out of the pages of Turgenev, born into a nest of gentlefolk, he became an anarchist and an assassin. In exile, he was killed in a bizarre accident on the railway line near Chiswick. In 50m, just after a bamboo fence, turn very sharp right, on a narrow signed footpath, thus leaving the GW. Your path runs downhill by a garden fence, then between banks and, after 300m, takes you through a new metal gate into a large meadow.

- 3  Enjoying the sudden view of the Weald, walk down the right-hand side of the grass, keeping a new fence on your left, in the direction of a large house with chimneys. The mansion on the hill to your left is in Tenchleys Park. In the bottom corner, go through a new metal gate and follow a sheltered path. The path goes over a wide bridge, past a donkey field, turning left in the corner and over another wide bridge to meet a driveway. Suddenly facing you is the pleasing view of historic Tenchleys Manor with its pond and clipped hedges. Dendrochronology of the house's beautiful timbers dates it to 1599 (the probable year of "Hamlet"). Turn right on the drive. 30m after you pass the pond, fork left at a fingerpost diagonally across the grass. Your path takes you over a bridge and stile into a meadow. Keep to the right-hand side of the meadow, under wires. A stile beside a large wooden gate takes you onto a tarmac lane, Itchingwood Common Road. Turn left on the lane, soon passing Moat Farm with its capacious duck pond.
- 4 You pass a converted barn, a timbered cottage and one more dwelling. Immediately after this last building, The Old Lodge, turn left beside the wall by a hidden fingerpost onto a path beside a sloping meadow. Keep left beside a hedge, close to the house, and continue round to the top of the meadow. Up on your left, the tree-covered Searn Bank is your next destination. Turn left to go through a shiny new steel kissing gate (thank you, East Surrey Ramblers!) into another meadow. Ignore a path right (part of the Tandridge Border Path) and keep ahead along the left-hand side. At the top, go through another shiny new metal kissing-gate into a narrow sloping meadow. Turn right keeping to the right-hand side of the meadow, soon going under trees. In the first corner, go through a gate and follow a woodland path, emerging at the other side through a swing-gate. Keep the same direction in another meadow which curves left uphill to take you through a (very tight) swing-gate beside a large wooden gate. A gravel track leads quickly to a tarmac lane.
- 5 Turn sharp right on the lane and, in 10m, go left at a fingerpost steeply up a narrow footpath. You meet a driveway coming in from the left: keep straight ahead, passing several houses including the nestling Squirrel Cottage and Searn Bank Farm. Just after the next house, Springs, before the drive dips, fork left on a narrow path up into hollies. Your path goes fairly steeply up under birches and conifers, ending up a bank to a T-junction with a wide level path. Turn right on this path. In 100m or so, you meet a tarmac drive. Veer right on the driveway and in 150m, just before the entrance to Searnbank, go left steeply up into trees. At the top, ignore a path to the right and continue straight ahead on a wide clear path between birches and along a line of cypress. Your path passes a large water tank on your right, passing a large metal gate and reaching the Kent Hatch Road. Cross the road carefully, past a large metal gate, onto a wide straight path across the High Chart Woodland. In 150m, on your left, under a large pine, is a wide forestry track.

Decision point. If you are doing the shorter (8 km=5 miles) walk, with a break in the Carpenters Arms, skip to the end of this text and do the Carpenters Trail.

Leg 2: Woodland Ramble 2½ km=1½ miles

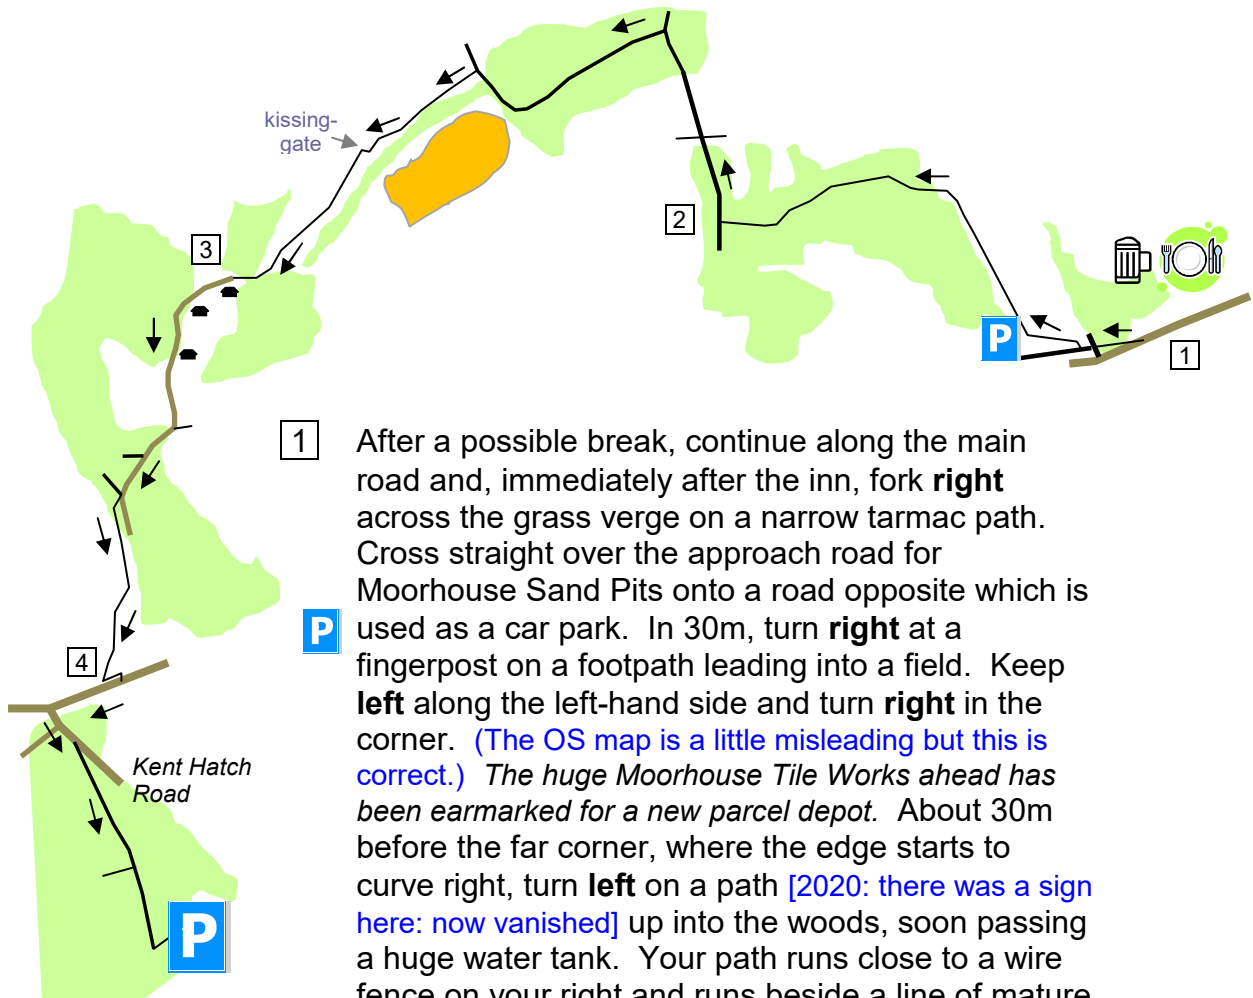

- 1 Ignore the wide forestry track and keep straight ahead. In 300m, your path goes straight over a narrow crossing path. In another 150m, you reach a major junction of five wide paths at a new 5-way fingerpost. Ignore a path on the right and take the second path from the right, just a fraction to the right of your original direction. But, in only 15m, turn left on a narrow path. (As a guide, there is a tall white pole here marking a gas pipeline.) Your path runs through a coppice and parallel to a wide track on the left until it diverges. The earth bank on your right marks the border with Kent. After 250m, avoid a branching path on your left and keep straight on. Your path winds through a woodland of oak and beech and reaches a junction of paths, where an open field can be seen ahead to your right. Avoid two paths on your left and head towards the field. Pick up a path which runs just inside the wood with the field immediately on your right.
 - 2 Stay near the field, ignoring paths off, until your path veers left and reaches the bottom of a dip. Just as the path begins to rise again, you will notice waymarked footpaths on your left and right. [2015: the path at an angle on your right has a yellow arrow and leads to a stile and a field, but the path on your left (the one you should take) has lost its marker.] Turn left on the narrow footpath. In 100m it leads to a wide crossing track. Turn sharp right on this track, uphill. This good surfaced way wheels left and passes a welcome! sign for the High Chart Woodland. Go through a wooden barrier to a T-junction with a driveway and turn left on it. In 200m you come out to a road opposite the Moorhouse car park.
- P Cross the road into the car park and immediately turn right along the right-hand edge of the open grassy space. After about 60m along the edge, keep round to the left for another 40m to the next blunt corner and look for an unmarked path on your right going steeply down into the woodland. (If you reach a bench seat, you have come about 50m too far.) This path goes down through birch, then holly, and veers right alongside a pasture on your left with a house beyond. It becomes a wide sandy path, finally coming out through conifers to the road again. Cross straight over the road, a fraction right, and take a rough driveway towards a row of stone houses. Turn left beside the houses and, after the last house, take a narrow path downhill. Your path passes another row of cottages at the bottom and joins a wide tarmac drive, re-joining the road for the last 30m, coming out to the main A25 road. Cross the main road carefully and turn left to the extravagant neo-Tudor Grasshopper Inn. [2019-20: the Grasshopper is closed for a substantial refurbishment, now badly affected by the 2020 situation. Description below retained in grey in case it re-opens.]

This site seldom puts a huge hotel and wedding venue on your route but a watering hole is just that – and they really want you to drop in and see that, at base, it's another friendly pub! The bar is by the main entrance. If you care to stop for lunch (best to book: 01959-563136) there's a good menu of substantial dishes of the "comfort food" variety. The name, by the way, comes from the Gresham family of Titsey whose name, a corruption of that insect, was bestowed on several nearby locations, including the other Grasshopper in Westerham.

Leg 3: Northern Meander 4 km=2½ miles

1 After a possible break, continue along the main road and, immediately after the inn, fork right across the grass verge on a narrow tarmac path. Cross straight over the approach road for Moorhouse Sand Pits onto a road opposite which is used as a car park. In 30m, turn right at a fingerpost on a footpath leading into a field. Keep left along the left-hand side and turn right in the corner. (The OS map is a little misleading but this is correct.) The huge Moorhouse Tile Works ahead has been earmarked for a new parcel depot. About 30m before the far corner, where the edge starts to curve right, turn left on a path [2020: there was a sign here: now vanished] up into the woods, soon passing a huge water tank. Your path runs close to a wire fence on your right and runs beside a line of mature beeches, then pines, with Thrift Wood on your left. On reaching a tarmac lane, turn right. You are on part of the Vanguard Way (VGW) and long-distance path running from Croydon to the south coast.

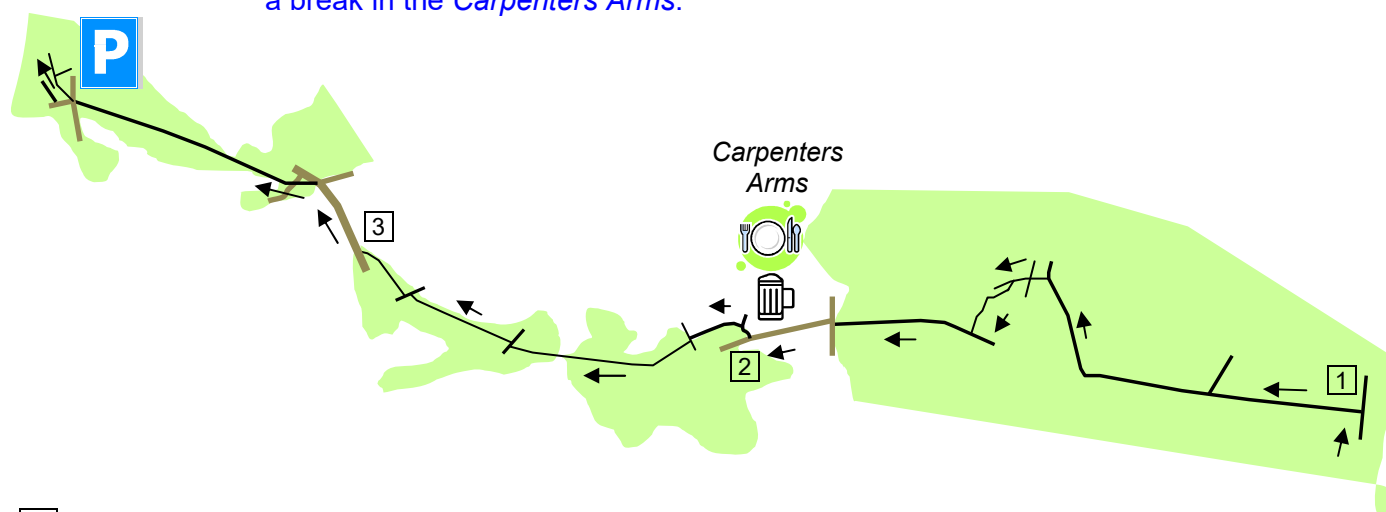

2 Cross straight over a track coming from the sand pit, passing Broomlands Farm and its farmhouse, and entering a forest track, via a metal gate. In 50m or so, you reach a major fork by a fingerpost. Turn left on a footpath, thus leaving the VGW, and follow this wide path beside overhead wires. Your path bends right by the edge of the quarry, affording a scenic view, and rises to a high point where fields meet with a view of the North Downs. Titsey church with its pointed steeple is visible ahead. Before you reach a large metal gate, turn left on a signed footpath between trees. This path takes you up into a crop field. Take a diagonal path left for 30m through the crops and go out through a metal kissing gate into a pasture. Turn left with a fence on your left and, at the end of the fence, carry on for 40m to the edge of the meadow and turn left. Continue along the right-hand side to the corner to find another metal kissing gate. After the gate, a short woodland path leads to a tarmac drive beside houses.

- 3 Keep straight on along the drive, known rather indecorously as Grub Street, soon passing the historic Grade II listed Sheiling Cottage. After more properties, the drive bends right. Ignore a footpath sharp left here and stay on the drive. After a couple of twists, ignore a bridleway on your right. Where the drive curves left, you meet a fingerpost by a green space where a bridleway comes from the right. Go right here onto the green and turn left along the edge, keeping within the line of stumps and thus avoiding the golf links. After the last stump, by a tree, veer right a little, so that you are heading for a bus shelter visible ahead on the road, to the left of the big school building. You reach the main road by a golf tee. Cross the main A25 road by a staggered crossing.
- 4 Turn right along the road, quickly reaching the junction with the Kent Hatch Road. First, cross carefully over the junction and turn sharp left on the far side of the Kent Hatch Road, avoiding a side road, New Road. In 30m, ignore a fingerpost pointing into the trees and continue another 20m to a bus stop. Fork right here on an unsigned wide path into the woods. Keep straight ahead at all times as the path winds through a partially cleared area, ignoring a signed footpath on your right. A little further, after 350m on this path, on your left is the Brick Kiln car park, where your walk began.

The Carpenters Trail 3 km=2 miles

Take this option if you are doing the shorter (8 km=5 miles) walk, with a break in the Carpenters Arms.

- 1 Turn left on the wide forestry track. Your track runs straight for ½ km, being joined half-way by another track from the right. It bends right and, in another 200m, just before another right bend, it reaches a marker post bearing a yellow arrow, indicating that you have re-joined the GW. Turn left here on a woodland path. In 40m, your path crosses a NT bridleway at a marker post with blue and yellow arrows. In 50m, keep left before a hollow and follow the main twisty path, which may be a little muddy, forking right, to meet a wide surfaced path in 120m. Turn right on this path. It leads, in nearly 250m, to the village in the centre of Limpsfield Chart. Cross a road and continue for 150m to reach the Carpenters Arms, a lively pub run by Westerham Brewery. For a spirited account of this inn, see another walk in this series, “The Carpenters Arms (Pub Walk)”.

- 2 After your break, with your back to the pub, turn right and right again, beside the pub and immediately fork left on a shingle track beside some houses on your right. In 100m, cross over a tarmac side road, a fraction left, to a signposted woodland path with the GW marking. Your path curves right as it nears the main Kent Hatch Road. In 150m, this tarmac footpath runs beside the main road. Continue on the footway, ignoring a bridleway on your right and a sign at the entrance to Lombarden Farm (also a dental practice), fork slightly right away from the road, cross the drive and take a footpath opposite, parallel to the road. In 200m, your path crosses a tarmac drive, a fraction left, and continues on a footpath opposite. In 100m through more trees, your path comes out to the road.
- 3 Cross the road carefully and turn right along the verge, which soon becomes much wider as it runs beside a grassy bank. Just before a side road, Chapel Road, veer left across the grass, cross over Chapel Road and take a signed bridleway opposite. Follow the bridleway, with golf links first on your left, then on your right, and through woodland for a further 400m. You reach the Brick Kiln Road at a side junction. Cross straight over to Stoneswood Road, but immediately turn right on an unsigned woodland path. This path is opposite the grass triangle at the junction and is 10m before another, signposted, path. Your path takes you, in 40m, to the Brick Kiln car park where the walk began.

Getting there

By car: if coming via the M25, come off at Junction 6, turn onto the A22 south, signposted East Grinstead, and go left at a roundabout onto the A25 through Oxted and Limpsfield and, after some traffic lights, fork right onto the B269 Kent Hatch Road, signposted Edenbridge. Go ¼ mile and turn right on Brick Kiln Road. The car park is within 200 yards, on the right.

If coming from the east, again take the A25. From the south, take the B2026 through Crockham Hill.

By train & bus: bus 594 or 595 from Oxted station.
