Woodland, high moors, lake, views, meadows

In Brief

Here are two perfect walks starting in the quiet Surrey village of Normandy. The longer walk takes you over the highest points of Ash and Pirbright Ranges with fabulous views, via a good pub and back through heath and gentle woodland to the quiet village of Normandy. In case the Ranges are closed (as if you needed a reason) there is a shorter walk which takes you in a different direction through the woodland of Normandy Hill and back through pastures and woodland. As you might expect, these walks find some fabulous paths known only to locals that you would not see on the map, so as to give you an intimate feeling for the whole area.

The longer walk goes over Defence land and there is a chance that the area may be closed either for the day or until about 3pm, indicated by a red flag or red lamps. This can happen on any day, and on other days there is occasionally "dry" training (with no live ammunition), in which case you can proceed with caution. If in doubt, you can ring the Range Officer in advance on 01252- 325233. Don't be put off by this: this is a favourite area for walkers and horse riders and for families with children; and on a good day you will meet locals and visitors enjoying the fresh air.

There are no nettles and any sensible footwear is fine. Lots of local people walk their dogs there.

The walk begins at the Normandy car park, Guildford Road, postcode GU3 2DA. For more details and a recommended route, see at the end of this text (→ Getting There).

The Walk

Normandy is a parish of several hamlets, some better recorded in history than the village itself. In fact the origin of the name has been a mystery. It may have nothing to do with the Normans but simply mean "no man's land".

Normandy to the Ranges 1½ km=1 mile

This starting section is the same for both walks.

- 1 Exit the car park at the back left-hand side, over a little bridge. Follow the footpath over another bridge and alongside a tennis court to a small parking area and a tarmac drive. Turn right on the drive for 20m and then go left over a 2-plank bridge onto a narrow path through woodland. Stay on this path for more than 200m as it runs quite close to the road on your right and finally veers left over a bank into a parking area near a cricket pavilion. Keep left through the parking area and, about 30m past the building, by a sign on a wooden post, turn right on a footpath marked with a yellow arrow. In only 15m, there is a yellow arrow and a stile on your right. Ignore both and instead, 15m later, fork left on a narrower path that runs parallel to and, at first, very close to the path you were on. The path soon runs under tall firs and oaks with the cricket pitch close by on your left. It then runs through the centre of the wood, guided by the occasional marker post, and finally goes up a series of steps to a main road.
- 2 Cross directly over the main road to a wide track opposite next to Hillside. The track bends left past the backs of more houses. In only 15m, opposite the back gate to Summer Place, go right over a bank onto a narrow path into woodland. The path becomes wider and sandy and meets a wider path from the left. As you approach the open heath ahead, go over a wide diagonal crossing path to a metal gate and fence by a flagpole.

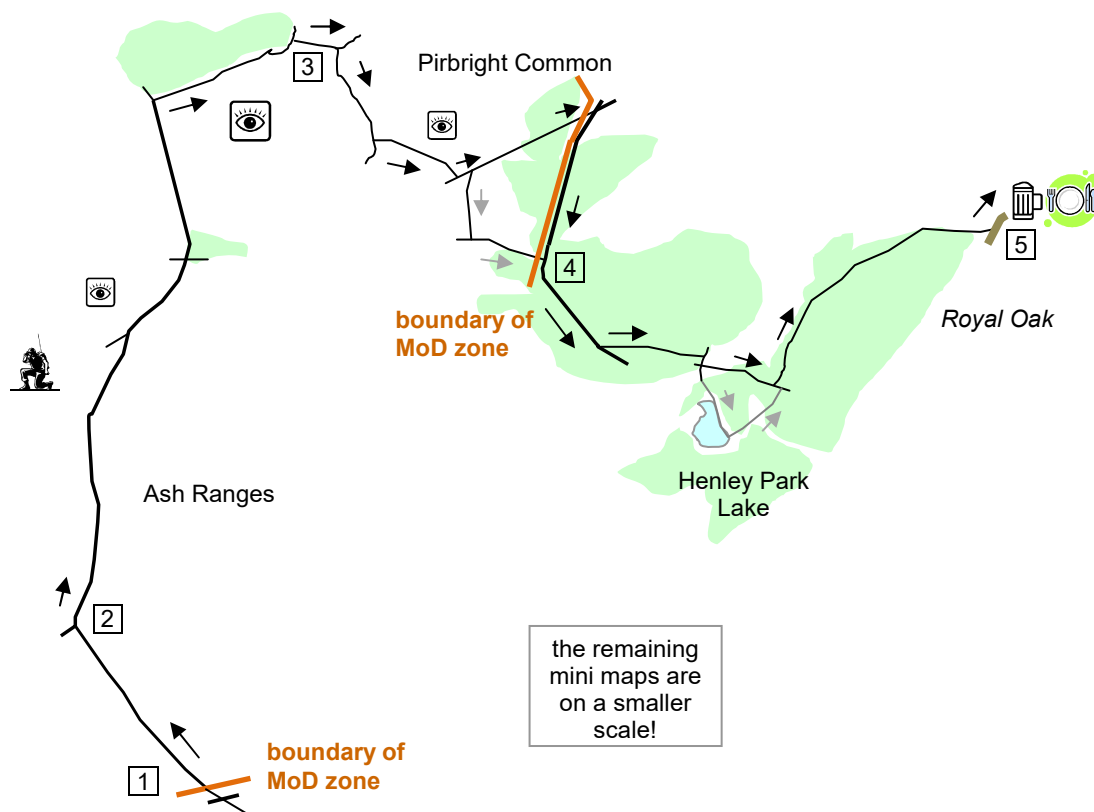

Decision point. Now you need to choose between two walks.

Walk 1 “Over The Tops” takes you over Ash and Pirbright Ranges, via a good pub and back to the start through heath and woodland. If a red flag is flying, you cannot do Walk 1. (Sometimes it is worth waiting for the exercise to stop. There are other walks nearby, for example at Worplesdon and Aldershot.)

Walk 2 “Through the Forest and Meadows” avoids the MoD land and goes counterclockwise over Normandy Hill and back through pastures and woods.

Walk 1: Over the Tops 11½ km=7 miles

- 1 Go through a small metal gate and straight ahead, crossing a wide track, on a track going uphill into the distance. This area is known as Ash Ranges, with the principal closed firing ranges a good distance away on your left. Always keep to the main track, avoiding all turnings off, until you reach the top of the hill where there is a T-junction and a white pillar marked with an “E” on the other side. Turn right at the T-junction.

- 2 You have good views south which will accompany you for most of this part of the walk. After a km or so, you pass another white pillar, with a “D” on it. After another 350m on this high path, you come to a crossing track with a pillar bearing the letter “A” by a small pinewood. Continue straight ahead with the wood on your right and follow the straight path, veering a fraction left, out into the open moor again. In 600m, you come to another line of trees with a thinly wooded closed area and warning signs. Turn right here on a track with the wood and warning signs on your left. After the fence ends, keep ahead on a high level promontory, which gives you wide views ahead as far as the tall buildings of the City of London. About ½ km since you turned right, the path descends fairly steeply and bends left. Just 50m after the bend, turn right on another path, avoiding the downhill path ahead.

- 3 In 150m, you come to a 3-way junction. Avoid the path that veers left ahead towards pine woods and instead turn right. Your path descends and zigzags through heather in an especially attractive part of Pirbright Common dotted with pines and surrounded by small hills. After nearly ½ km you reach the corner of a fence with another pillar, this time with a letter "C". Keep straight ahead on a track with the fence on your left and go 80m, ignoring a minor grassy path on your left. Now turn left on a wide heather path heading for an upward slope ahead. (Don't miss this turn! - it is 20m before your track bends right.) At the top of the slope, you are on another high level path. This is a good vantage point for observing nature with several species of bird evident from their song. The path now goes steeply down. At the bottom, turn left on a wide sandy path.

A short cut is available here for the young (and physically young) who don't mind possibly hopping over a low metal gate: In 50m, turn sharp right on another path. In 250m your path reaches a T-junction. Turn left here on a very wide path. This path leads, in nearly 300m, to the boundary fence with a large metal gate. Turn right for 100m to find a smaller metal gate. Unfortunately, this gate is usually padlocked (although not at the time this walk was written and maybe not after the author left a polite note). Hop over the gate and turn right on a broad track, re-joining the walk in the next section.

Ignore a path sharp right and stay on this sandy, later stony, path for another ½ km through pinewoods. After a dense band of trees, you see a hillock on your left with a flag pole and you quickly reach an exit gate, leading you out of the MoD area. Turn very sharp right close to the boundary fence. This wide track elbows left and, in ½ km you pass two metal gates, large and small, in the fence.

- 4 The track immediately curves left and, in about 300m, you can see Peatmere Pond on your right (summer foliage permitting). At a notice by a heavy metal barrier, fork left away from the fence on a wide woodland path. Follow this path for 350m or so, going over a crossing path and ignoring several side branches, going over a stream at one point. You reach a T-junction with a major path. Turn right here, almost immediately reaching a 4-way junction.

Decision point. Only 100m ahead, through a single-bar barrier and over a wooden bridge, is Henley Park Lake. Even if you are in a tearing hurry, a quick view of the lake is an absolute must. It might even be a suitable place for a picnic (but don't disturb the anglers) or, with a few more minutes to spare, you could walk straight on* along the raised path ahead beside the lake and turn sharp left after the sluice at the end, then left at a T-junction and first right to re-join this walk. (*You cannot go round the lake using the anglers' path on the right: it is blocked off later.)

Turn left on a wide track. In about 100m, ignore a private track on the left. In another 150m or so, turn left at a signpost on a track with signs for Stream House and Bourne House. Your path passes a garden pond on your left, veers right at the entrance to the second house and follows a wide course between pines [2018: with evidence of forestry clearance]. In nearly 1 km, you pass a house on your left and reach the main A324 road. Cross the road and turn left, immediately reaching the Royal Oak at Pirbright.

The 300 year-old "Royal Oak" is treasured by local people and you may find they have taken all the outside tables in the attractive front and back gardens. The tie-up and water bowls for your dog suggest he isn't too welcome inside and the pub verges on the posh side, although prices seem reasonable. Best of all: the pub is open all day every day.

5 Continue along the main road for another 150m to a road junction and turn right on Ash Road, using the footway on the far side. Just before the road bends left, go right by a metal barrier on a signed footpath through a wood of holly and oak. In 100m, the path runs over a stream and shortly takes you over a stile by an (open) metal gate. Before the next metal gate a short distance away, the path veers left at a yellow arrow beside a wire fence. You now have a quiet walk through a forest of pines and birch. You may encounter a marshy patch, but this is easily skipped over and is strictly temporary. There is a slippery board-walk part way. After 700m you pass a garden and house on your left and reach a T-junction with a drive. Turn right on the drive.

6 Follow this wide woodland track straight on for some distance. In about 700m, the track becomes tarmac by a house and comes out beside a gate to a road. Cross the road to a small metal gate opposite a footpath signpost. You have a beautiful heath on your left as the path goes through birch and bracken. It crosses a tarmac drive by a fingerpost indicating that you are on part of the Fox Way, a 63 km Guildford circular walk. The path runs beside rhododendrons, beside beeches on your right, then under some tall chestnuts. A short distance further under these fine tall trees, you see a low marker post on the left. [2018: the post has been damaged and stuck back wrongly.] Don't miss this junction! (If you look straight ahead in 100m you will see a fence and a grey industrial building in the distance.) Turn left at the marker post onto a narrow path.

7 The path crosses the tarmac drive at a post with a yellow arrow. Shortly after, veer right as indicated by a wooden fingerpost. The path goes under oaks, then between low fences with six large red-brick houses on your right. Stay on the path until a junction of paths by a marker post, thus leaving the Fox Way which branches off to the left. Go straight ahead over a little bridge, through a swing-gate onto a grassy path. After going through another swing-gate, ignore a footpath on your right and continue ahead in a recently untidily cleared area. Continue ahead between rather rough meadows. Before the end of the meadows, your route veers left downhill, crosses a track and follows a narrow path across the next crop field. (Until recently, there were several field boundaries, now all joined into one large field.) Go across the next large grassy meadow and, at the far end, ignore a marked footpath on your left, go over a stile and follow a faint path down the horse meadow.

8 At the far side go over a stile (or, if not locked, through a metal gate). Pass some stables and go right over two stiles onto a path between pastures. When you reach a tarmac drive by Huntshill Farmhouse, turn right. In only 40m, at a signpost, turn left into woods. In only 15m, bear right. Almost immediately when you see the large redbrick Normandy Hill House ahead, keep right past the house, cross its drive and a patch of grass. Here, at a junction with a marker post, keep straight on, walking along the side of the house on your left. Your path runs between ditches and approaches the road in Normandy. After a bridge, turn right, arriving back at the car park where the walk began.

Walk 2: Through the Forest and Meadows 5½ km=3½ miles

- 1 Step back a short distance from the MoD border fence and keep left on the very wide crossing path, a route that runs parallel with the open land on your right, but under trees. Keep to the main path at all times, avoiding all turn-offs. Your path goes over a hillock and down a shallow dip. After 800m you pass a field on your left with a farm beyond. About 200m later, the way gets steeper as you ascend Normandy Hill. At the top, you reach a flat area with some crossing paths. For the next ½ km, the best way to summarise your course is “straight ahead at all times”.
- 2 Carry straight on over the first crossing path and immediately avoid forking right at a junction of more paths. Follow the main path down through hollies and keep straight on under tall pines, with a wire fence on your left. You come out onto a wide pine-covered space with the land falling away quite steeply on your left. Keep straight ahead on a level path, passing close to a very small stone enclosure on your left. Now continue straight ahead, slightly uphill, on a very rooty path. In 100m, you reach a steep-sided gully. Go down carefully into the gully and turn left on a path running along the bottom. In 150m, you reach a junction of five wide paths. Ignore a wide grassy path sharp left, but take the second path on your left. In 120m, at the corner of a house and garden, veer right beside the fence and follow the narrow path to the main road. (Or, by keeping straight on to a small car park by the main road, you reach the Curzon “Indian” Restaurant.) Cross the road carefully to The Lion Brewery in Ash.

The Lion Brewery has become a bit of a cult, for its live musical gigs and its very basic amenities. You can get breakfast, ices and reasonable food. This pub seems to go into short-term hibernation but never seems to close.

- 3 After a possible sojourn, take the minor road, Harpers Road, beside the pub. In only 100m, after a playing field, turn left through a car park and take a narrow unmarked path between posts. Your path goes past paddocks and between more posts to cross over a farm drive. At the end of the path, turn right on a residential road, using the footway first on the right, then on the left. Turn left on the first side road, also a residential road and follow it, ignoring a road on the right, going past a long green on your right. At the far end, follow the path to a T-junction with a track and turn right on it. In 300m, you will see on your left a double metal gate with a yellow arrow. Here you have a choice of two possible routes, but the slightly longer second option 4b is regarded as more interesting because of the woodland.
- 4a The field option. [\[Jul-Aug: some walkers found it overgrown with bracken in high summer.\]](#) Turn left through a gap beside the gate and take the footpath through a patch of woodland, straight across a field and through a gap into the next field. Go right-left around the corner of this field and, at the far end, go through a swing-gate and [\[2018: hidden by a fallen tree\]](#) turn left on a path between fields.
- 4b The woodland option. Ignore the footpath on your left and carry straight on along the track. In 40m, veer left at a junction on a wide track. In 80m, you pass on your left a small car park used by anglers. Immediately after, turn left through a metal gate onto a wide woodland path running between fences. [\[Jul-Aug: some walkers found this path overgrown with bracken in high summer and decided to stay on the track, turning left 100m further on.\]](#) In 250m, your path runs beside a large field on your right. Shortly after this, just before the path narrows, turn left on another wide woodland path. This path takes you over a small bridge and, in 180m, reaches the edge of the wood by a field. Go left-right, ignoring a swing-gate on your left, and follow a path between fields.

- 5 At the corner of the pastures, turn right with woods on your left. In the corner, your path goes over a bridge, through woodland and between more horse pastures. Finally, you come out beside a house and gardens to a road. Turn right on the road and, in 40m, turn sharp left on a signposted footpath. This path leads to a stile into a meadow. Follow the right-hand edge to the far end and wheel left to come through a large wooden gate and over a stile to the main road. Turn right on the road, quickly reaching the car park where the walk began.

Getting there

By car: if coming from the A3, the best route is via the Hog's Back, the A31 (Farnham) road. Come off at a turn-off for Normandy Compton Puttenham Wanborough. Follow signs for Normandy Wanborough. (At Wanborough it is worth stopping on the way to view the church, the ancient barns and, from outside, the Manor. There is an excellent large car park signed on the right in the village.) Further on, after Wanborough, take the road to the right signposted Normandy, follow the left bend and drive past Wanborough railway station on your left. On reaching the main road (the A323) at the end, go straight over. The entrance to the car park is on your left.

By bus: There is a regular bus service every day of the week between Aldershot and Guildford bus stations and a bus stop (Glaziers Lane) next to the car park where the walk begins. Buses every 15 minutes weekdays, every 20 minutes Saturday and every half an hour on Sundays. Stagecoach South KITE bus.

By train: Wanborough Station is 1.4 km (about a mile) from the walk.
