Village, woodland, views, bluebells, stream valley

In Brief

Here is a peaceful rural ramble through the meadows and woodlands of southwest Surrey. It starts in Chiddingfold, one of Surrey's most picturesque villages which offers good chances for a rest and refreshment. Near the end, it takes you through some spectacular wooded terrain. At the time this walk was done, there were no ploughed fields along the way and only a few sheep for companionship. In late spring, many of the paths are fringed with bluebells. In the centre of the walk there is a chance to visit one of Surrey's best secrets: a garden famous for its blazing spring blooms (modest entry fee). Nearby, there is also an excellent pub/restaurant (to enquire at The Mulberry, ring 01428-644460).

The paths on this walk are usually clear but in high summer you will encounter one or two patches of nettles and other undergrowth. Much of the walk is along good farm tracks or quiet lanes. However, since this is a Wealden walk, inevitably you will encounter some muddy sections, making boots necessary, except possibly in dry summer weather. Your dog can come too, with a lead of course.

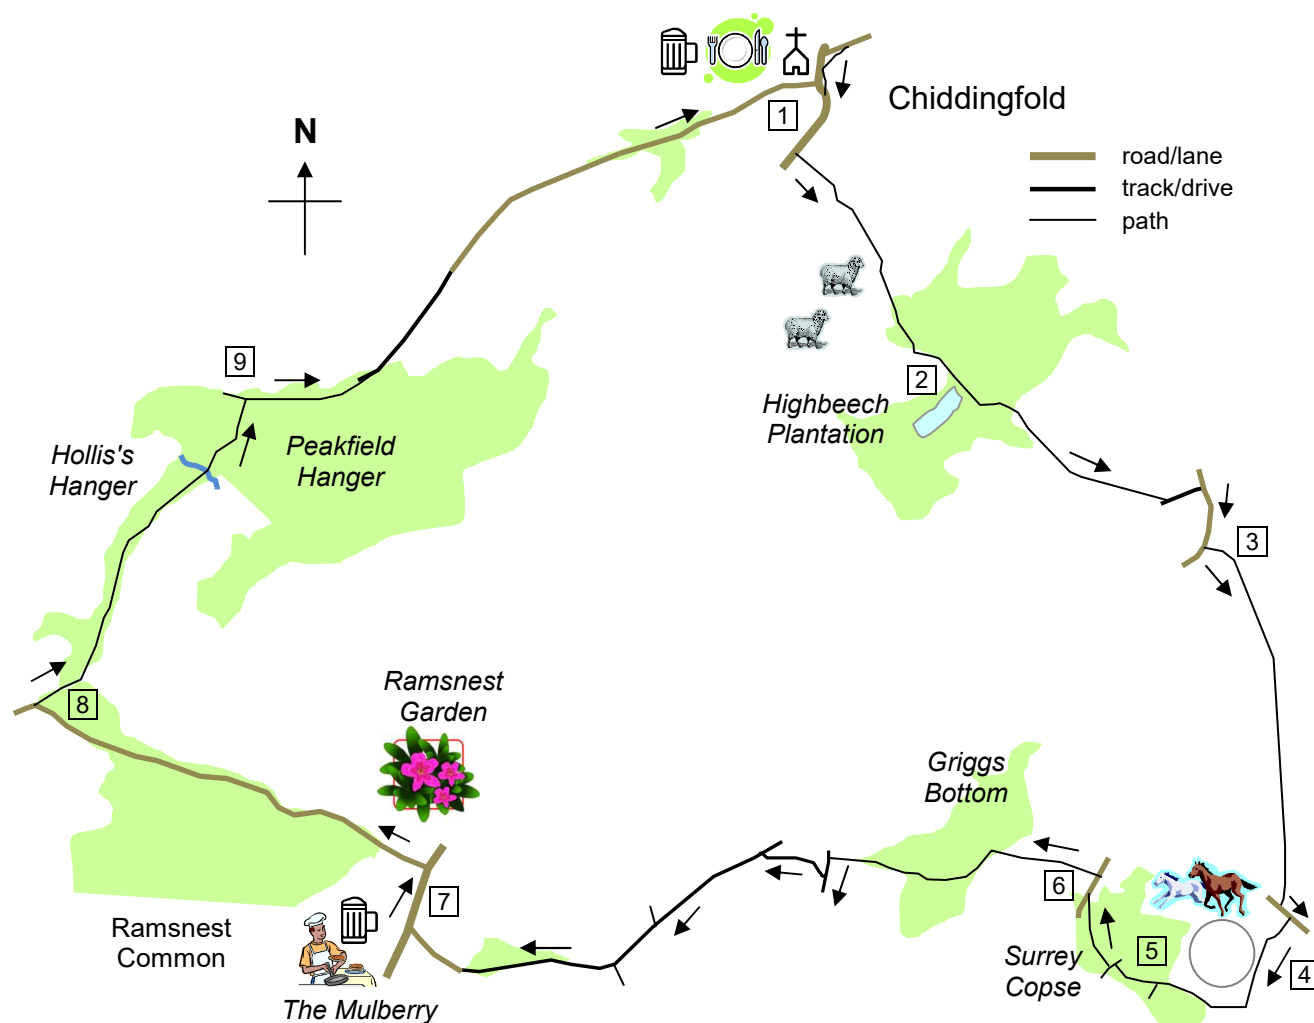

June 2018: This walk was affected by a (temporary?) bridge closure – see section 8.

The walk begins at Chiddingfold, Surrey, postcode GU8 4TX. Park alongside the Green. For more details, see at the end of this text (→ Getting There).

There is a shop at Chiddingfold and the Crown Inn (founded 1250) and the Swan Inn serve good food. There is also the "Treacles Tea Shop". You will find a hilarious and informative account of the village in another walk in this series: "Witley, Hambledon, Chiddingfold".

The Walk

- 1 Go along the side of the Green towards the church and the Crown Inn. Just before the inn, go left through a passage, re-joining the road by a butcher's shop and continuing past the Swan Inn, crossing a bridge over the Anstead Brook and ignoring a side road. At a fingerpost after the last house, turn left on a footpath. This narrow path runs between fences, by a field, over a stile and along the right-hand side of a meadow. At a post with a yellow marker go right up some steps and left beside a wire fence. This leads you over a stile, uphill through a bluebell wood and over a stile into a sheep meadow. Turn left along the edge of the meadow.
- 2 Go over a stile in the corner onto a woodland path in the Highbeech Plantation. Go carefully down the slope ahead, aided by steps, and past a pond on your right. The path takes you over a stream, up and along a grassy path by a fence and a large pasture. The path elbows left by a gate and finally bends right to go over a stile. Turn left on the grass beside the driveway coming from Old Pickhurst and, at a T-junction, turn right on a road, immediately avoiding a road junction on your left.
- 3 After 150m, go left over a stile into a small green meadow and, in less than 100m, go right over a small bridge and stile into a sheep pasture. Cross the pasture aiming for the right-hand edge of a line of trees on the other side. Once there, go over a stile beside a metal gate and continue uphill next to a fence on your right. In the far corner, which can be a little

6 Go straight across the meadow, keeping slightly to the right of an oak tree in the middle of the field. Ignore a metal gate over to the right and aim instead for the metal gate straight ahead. Go through the gate into the woods of Griggs Bottom and immediately turn left at a fingerpost. In 60m, at another fingerpost, your path veers right up deeper into the wood. In about 150m, the path emerges into a large sloping green field. Keep ahead along the right-hand side of the field. At the corner, go through a small wooden gate and turn left on a wide farm track. In 30m, follow a hairpin round to the right. In 200m, at a fingerpost, veer left towards the farm buildings. You pass a reedy pond and, on your right, Redlands Farmhouse, then Honeypot Cottage and the buildings of Gostrode Farm. Stay on the tarmac, ignoring a footpath on your right and a bridleway on your left at a bend. Finally you pass some houses, go over a grid (or through a small wooden gate), pass a footpath on your left, and progress onwards till you reach the main A283 Petworth Road by a Shell filling station (which serves snacks and drinks) in the hamlet of Ramsnest Common.

You will be continuing by crossing the road and turning right. But first, less than 100m along the verge on your left is one of the best pub/restaurants in the neighbourhood. The Mulberry is nice-sized and welcoming with a little garden on the side. As much a restaurant as a pub, it offers an inventive menu, including such things as crabmeat profiteroles, herb-stuffed chicken in serrano and a daily special. The opening hours are generous too.

7 Having crossed the road and turned right (or going straight on if returning from The Mulberry), go 150m along the footway and turn left on a side road, Killinghurst Lane. However, by continuing another 100m or so along the main road, you could make an excursion to Ramster Garden (previously known as "Ramsnest Garden") (pay on entry), famous for its glorious spring colours. Follow quiet Killinghurst Lane, catching a glimpse of the Garden on your right as you go. The lane dips to go over a stream, passing farm buildings and winds its way uphill. The lane zigzags through a broken wall and descends. You pass a meadow on your left with a beautiful cedar, belonging to historic Kilinghurst House. Finally, the lane takes a left bend.

 8 [Jun 2018: there is a notice declaring the path “closed because of a dangerous footbridge”. Walkers reported that they took the risk and found the bridge (below) taped off but crossable with care.] Leave the lane here by turning right at a fingerpost on a narrow path. The path runs along the right-hand side of a field and, in 40m, forks right into woods. You are in a long strip of woodland known as Hollis's Hanger. It runs beside a stream gully down on your left. This primeval and exciting landscape will be yours to enjoy for 1 km – and probably alone because few people come here. In late spring, this is a notable place for bluebells too. Eventually the path descends to the level of the stream and crosses it by an excellent bridge. After the bridge, keep left, following a thin stream on your left. You may need to hop around the mud in this section. Your path crosses the stream using a 3-plank bridge. At the top, you come to a T-junction with a much wider path. Turn right on this path.

9 The path runs past some corrugated farm sheds and onwards through woodland (testing your mud-hopping skills again). It eventually joins a tarmac driveway coming in on the left from Hollyhurst. This lane soon passes houses on both sides in the hamlet of Upper Sydenhurst. Keep straight on along this very quiet cul-de-sac lane passing several footpaths on the left. In one more km, the lane reaches the main road in Chiddingfold. Turn left and cross the road to the Crown Inn and the Green where the walk began.

Getting there

By car: Chiddingfold is on the A283 Milford-Petworth road. If coming from the London area, turn off after Guildford through Milford and take the A283 south.

By bus/train: there are several bus routes to Chiddingfold from Haslemere station but they run on odd days. The best idea is to check the web for the latest options.
