

Puttenham Common, Waverley Abbey & Tilford

Distance: 17½ km=11 miles

easy walking

Region: Surrey

Date written: 9-sep-2013

Author: Schwebefuss

Date revised: 15-aug-2019

Refreshments: Tilford

Last update: 28-feb-2025

Map: Explorer 145 (Guildford) but the maps in this guide should be enough

Problems, changes? We depend on your feedback: feedback@fancyfreewalks.org

Public rights are restricted to printing, copying or distributing this document exactly as seen here, complete and without any cutting or editing. See Principles on main webpage.

Woodland, views, village, river, hills, historic locations

In Brief

This is an absolutely classic walk, a favourite, definitely not unique to this site but, I hope, told in my own unique style and with just a couple of FFW twists. En route you will find historical locations going back to the middle ages, one of the most charming of Surrey villages, divine birch and pine forests and two great places to take refreshment.

In the wetter seasons there are some muddy patches along the path into Tilford but otherwise this is a dry walk. In summer there are some nettles on the path out of Tilford. Apart from this, any sensible clothing should be fine. There are no stiles. Your dog is very welcome to come too.

The walk begins at the Puttenham Common Middle Car Park in Suffield Lane, nearest postcode GU3 1BG, grid ref SU 911 459. Other possible starts are the Puttenham Common Tarn Car Park, approximate postcode GU10 1JH, grid ref SU 909 456, and the Britty Wood car park, postcode GU10 1JJ, grid ref SU 904 457, both off Littleworth Road. For more details, see at the end of this text (→ Getting There).

The Walk

Leg 1: Puttenham Common to The Sands 5½ km=3½ miles

- 1 Take the main footpath in the far left corner of the Middle Car Park just to the right of a noticeboard, going past a post with coloured arrows which you will be following for some way. This woodland path takes you across a low wide bridge over a marshy stream after which a path joins you from the left. Wooden boards take you to the General's Pond, one of six ponds on the Common, once much larger, probably built as a fish pond. Stay on the main path with the pond on your right. Ignore a path forking right up a bank 20m after the pond. 150m later, you reach a fork with two marker posts. Take the right fork. After a long but easy climb, near the top, bear left at a marker post to reach a wide crossing path at a major sandy junction.
- 2 Turn left for only 5m and right again at a purple arrow, also a purple arrow for the self-guided trail, to maintain your original direction. Your path veers slightly right across an open space with great views ahead to the Hog's Back. After 200m, avoiding a path straight ahead, veer left on a wider sandy crossing track coming down from your right, still following the small purple arrow. After 250m, fork left at a marker post. In another 150m, after a winding route through trees, you eventually reach a T-junction with a major path by a tiny car park by a fence and stream. This is the North Downs Way (NDW), a well-known long-distance path. Turn left on the NDW, between paling fences to a lane by a cottage. Turn left on the lane.

- 3 In 10m, turn right at a signpost on a footpath. The path rises through Totford Wood to reach an open field. Bear left here, staying on the way-marked NDW, along a fine green path with occasional pines and a conifer plantation on the right. The path crosses a gravel drive and later crosses a wide ditch, passing through a swing-gate into a long grassy meadow, with another swing-gate after 50m, giving you more views right to the Hog's Back. Just before the end of the meadow, ignore a small wooden gate which is for horses only, go another 100m into the corner, and turn left through a swing-gate, as indicated by the arrow. The path runs beside a lawn and walled garden and comes down to a sunken path at the start of an area called Payn's Firs. Turn right here as indicated. The path soon forks slightly right through trees, at a new wooden barrier, avoiding the horse jumps on the left. It reaches the Seale Road via a wooden swing gate. Note the tiny imaginary "tree house" just before the road. Go right on the road.

- 4 In just 10m turn left at a fingerpost through a wooden gate, on a path that runs along the north side of a large field. In about 300m, ignore a permissive footpath on the left by a noticeboard. (See the walk Puttenham and the Welcome Woods which uses this path.) Crooksbury Hill is visible ahead to your left (climbed in another walk in this series). Continue into another field, after which the path zigzags right-left past the next field soon at a fingerpost, meeting a footpath from the right. Eventually your path ends at another fingerpost next to a road, Binton Lane. Cross straight over the road onto a narrow path with the links of the Farnham Golf Club on your left. [Spring 2024 and 2025: the early wet months caused some deep flooding on this path; walkers were forced to go back to Binton Lane, go left (north) and turn sharp left on a footpath at the corner of Seale Lane, rejoining the route at Blighton Lane.] Your path is now lined with wooden beams and comes out over a little bridge to a road, Blighton Lane. Turn left, going past the clubhouse to a major road in the superior residential village known as The Sands.

Leg 2: The Sands to Tilford 6 km=4 miles

- 1 Turn sharp right on the road, using the footway, passing, on the left, a business centre with its farm steam engine on display and, on the right, a golf driving range. About 650m after you joined this road, opposite the little parking space of No. 5 Swiss Cottage, turn left at a fingerpost on a narrow footpath, still on the NDW. At the end of the path, turn left on the main Crooksbury Road. In only 20m, turn right on a drive for Hunters Lodge, signed as the NDW. Where the drive bend right, keep ahead on a wide path running between woodland and houses. You reach a 3-way fingerpost at a T-junction just before a bank. Turn right here on a bridleway. In 150m, at a markerpost and fingerpost, turn left up three steps.
- 2 You are now in Runfold Wood, a nature reserve. Runfold Wood is a mixed woodland managed by the Surrey Wildlife Trust as a preserve of rare birds, lichens and fungi. It used to be a beech nursery until damaged by the storms in 1987 and 1990. After about 300m, continue through a swing-gate and along the right-hand side of a meadow. At a 3-way fingerpost, keep straight ahead. The NDW goes left at a corner to meet a residential road and turns right on it. As you go downhill, veer left as indicated by the NDW finger-post. At the bottom of the incline go over the stile and turn left onto the shingle drive of Moor Park House, thus leaving the NDW. (But for a brief historical diversion, if you turn temporarily right and proceed through the small metal swing-gate next to the main gate you will find an information tablet about the house and heritage trail.)

Moor Park is a Grade II listed house set in 24 ha (60 acres). An older house stood here from 1307 but the present house was built in 1630 and developed by its most celebrated owner, diplomat and essayist Sir William Temple in the 1680s. He employed a young Jonathan Swift (who later wrote Gulliver's Travels) as his secretary and the house played host to such notables as King William (of Orange), John Dryden, Joseph Addison and Richard Steele. In Victorian times, the house was used as a hydrotherapy centre and Charles Darwin was one visitor who benefited. One of the practitioners was the handsome Edinburgh doctor Dr Lane whose scandalous affair with Isabella Robinson ended here, giving rise to the account by Kate Summerscale in her novel "Mrs Robinson's Disgrace". In the 1890s the then owner chained up the lodge gates to keep out the public; this resulted in the "Battle of Moor Park" in which a crowd of nearly 500 local people forced the gates open. The grounds leading down from the footpath to the River Wey are a Nature Reserve, managed by the Surrey Wildlife Trust, a rare area of wet woodland and a Site of Special Scientific Interest (SSSI) noted for its alders, waterbirds (including kingfishers) and rare plants.

- 3 Follow the surfaced drive, going through a small wooden gate, after which becomes a rough wide track. After 700m, you pass some wartime defences with another information tablet. The path soon runs among beeches and mixed woodland above the valley of the River Wey on your right. In 400m or so, you pass Mother Ludlam's Cave on your left.

Mother Ludlam was the white witch of Waverley, a herbalist and helper of the poor. Anyone who needed a cooking utensil or piece of furniture would visit the cave at midnight, turn around three times repeating the words "Pray Mother Ludlam, lend me ... and I will return it in two days". The next morning the item would be at the cave entrance. All went well until a large copper cauldron was not returned on time. Mother Ludlam was so annoyed that she refused to take the cauldron back and refused to lend anything else again. The cauldron was taken to Waverley Abbey and, after the dissolution, to Frensham Church where it can still be seen. Another legend links Mother Ludlam with the Devil and the hills of the Devil's Jumps. (See the walk in this series Frensham Little Pond, Devil's Jumps, Sculpture Park.) A spring used to rise in the cave, giving a water supply for Waverley Abbey (see below) in the early middle ages. The cave was made into a grotto in Victorian times but it has languished recently.

Your path goes through a modern kissing-gate and a house and out to a road. Turn right on the road. As a worthwhile diversion, staying on the road Waverley Lane now leads to a mill pond, the River Wey and the entrance to the ruins of Waverley Abbey, with free entry to all visitors.

Waverley was the first monastery in Britain for the Cistercians, the self-sufficient "white friars". It was founded in 1128 by William Giffard, Bishop of Winchester who brought over twelve monks and an abbot from Aumone in France. The abbey grew over time but, because of its closeness to the river, suffered badly from floods. The monks and lay brothers farmed the land, raised sheep for their wool and provided shelter and an infirmary for travellers.

- 4 Immediately, at a road junction, turn left on a major road (or right if you are coming back from visiting the abbey). Traffic runs very speedily along this stretch, so you need to be careful, particularly if children and dogs are present. In 200m, just before a left curve, turn right at a fingerpost on a wide track, signed as a byway, running between fences. Your track rises through pine woods and, about 500m from the road, reaches a 3-way junction beside a large metal gate. Turn right here on the main sunken track uphill, following the red arrow. Your track comes out, in another 400m, to a lane opposite Sheephatch Farm and its converted barn.
- 5 Cross straight over the lane onto a wide track. In 30m, fork left at a markerpost going beside farm buildings, between gates and meadows, always keeping to the level path. 400m from the lane, a footpath joins you from the right at a markerpost. Soon you pass Tilhill House and its outbuildings and box hedges, now nicely redeveloped. You have great views now ahead and to your right to the Wey valley. At a junction with a fingerpost, leave the surfaced track by forking right, immediately ignoring a stile on your left. This path leads beside meadows to the road in Tilford. Your route is now left on the road, where you will also find the tea room (which now serves hot lunches) and shop (open every day, including weekends, till 7pm). But first you will want to turn right over the ancient Wey bridge to the village green with its happy crowds and the Barley Mow pub.

The bridge you have just come over is an ancient monument! The river is shallow here and the ford, after which "Tila's Ford" is named is still used by riders. There is another ancient bridge over another branch of the Wey on the other side of the green. The Barley Mow pub, built in about 1763, contains a tribute to Mike Hawthorn the racing driver who was killed in 1959 on the Guildford bypass and who regularly drank here. It has a predictable range of ales and reliable food but its great asset is the beautiful location. The old and very wide Tilford Oak, just past the pub on the right, now hobbled with age, was described by William Cobbett in 1822 as "by far the finest tree that I ever saw in my life".

Leg 3: Tilford to Puttenham Common 6 km=4 miles

The Haslemere-Guildford Monster joins this walk here.

- 1 Crossing the ancient bridge (or turning left on the road if you did not visit the village), pass the village shop and, in 250m, fork right on a minor road Whitmead Lane. In 100m, turn left at a rough junction and, in 20m, turn right at a fingerpost on a tarmac drive which soon becomes gravel. Where the drive curves left just before the gates of Archers Hill, fork right by a markerpost on a narrow path through woodland. The path runs beside a meadow (note the tree house by the house ahead) with steep woods down on your right. After more meadows and gardens, your path zigzags left-right by a gate before a house and runs between fences to reach a tarmac lane opposite Highmead.
- 2 Ignoring the footpath straight ahead, turn right on the lane until, in 300m, you reach a hairpin and a house Whitmead. Turn left here on a signposted track, just before the house. After more than 1 km along this wide winding woodland track you pass a large house Ravenswing and reach a fingerpost. Ignore both tracks on the left here and veer right on a track which passes on your right a small house which used to be the Donkey pub.

- 3 Continue on a short slip road leading to a main road, the B3001. Cross straight over and take a signposted drive opposite, just to the left of the gate of Foxhill. In 30m, turn right at a 3-way fingerpost on a narrow path that goes up through rhododendrons, gorse and bracken. At the top, beside a superior piggery, keep ahead on an elegant tarmac drive. At the end, beside the impressive iron gates of Three Barrows at Amina Heights, veer left on a drive lined with silver birch and exit to a road between eagle-crested pillars.
- 4 Avoiding the signposted track straight ahead, turn left on the road, passing a house Speedwell. After 300m on the road, just after a very small layby, fork right on a footpath into the woods, by a fingerpost. Ignoring a path that forks left parallel to the road, take the main right fork,. This beautiful woodland path has a variety of trees, especially rowan with their red berries in late summer. Avoid all lesser paths branching off. Your path curves left and right under wires, joining a path coming from the left. The path is now wider and straighter. Follow it through pine and birch woods, passing several side paths. A distant house Whitefield is visible on the left. Finally a wooden barrier takes you into the Britty Wood car park near a road.

The Haslemere-Guildford Monster leaves this walk here.

- 5 Turn right into the car park. Avoid the wide path that leads out of the back of the car park under wires but take a very narrow path in the left corner. Your path curves left over a bank and across a marvellous area of silver birches. In 100m avoid a lesser path that forks right and generally keep to the main twisty path. 300m from the car park, as you approach a fir wood, ignore a path that forks off right and keep to the narrow path straight ahead. In 130m a minor path forks off left: avoid it and veer right on the main path. (The left fork leads out to the road at the “wrong” end of the Tarn car park.) In 150m further, you reach a markerpost with a green arrow. [Aug 2019: it was grounded and the author dug it out and propped it up, where it still remains in 2022.] (The markerpost is next to a thick post with the remains of a flat board on top.) Turn abruptly left here on the main path, coming out to the road opposite the Puttenham Common Tarn car park.

- 6 Turn right and immediately left on Suffield Lane, using a woodland path beside the car park as a pleasant way to avoid the tarmac. Follow the lane* between the lakes: the big Tarn on your left and the Cutmill Pond on your right (see the other walk in this series: Puttenham and the Welcome Woods). Immediately after the Tarn, turn left at a small clearing and take a very narrow path on the right-hand side of the clearing, up a very steep bank and right on a path at a T-junction. This leads immediately to the Puttenham Common Middle Car Park where the walk began. [*Winter 2025: the lane may be closed to walkers for repairs; if so, there is a pleasant scenic alternative back to the car park, going clockwise round the edge of the big Tarn.]

Getting there

By car: the Puttenham Common Middle Car Park is reached from Puttenham village, either from the Hog's Back (Farnham road) or from the A3 via the B3000 Compton Puttenham turn-off. Turn into Puttenham village. Pass the church on the left and, just before the pub on the right, turn left on a road signposted Elstead, Cutmill. After about 1.3 miles = 2 km, ignore a car park on right (this is the Top Car Park) and continue for over 0.5 mile (nearly 1 km) further. The Middle Car Park is on the right, under a wooden bar.

By bus/train: Stagecoach bus 46 from Farnham or Godalming to Charleshill. Check the timetables.

fancy more free walks? www.fancyfreewalks.org

www.fancyfreewalks.org